Ladder of Smart Borrowing: For Undergrad Students 2016 - 2017 Academic Year

When it comes to paying for school, you have a lot of options. If grants and scholarships don't cover the cost, you may need to consider student loans.

Depending on your situation, some options make more sense than others.

Think of it like a ladder: Start with options that cost the least, then work your way up.

How to Fund your Education FAQ

1. What is FAFSA?

FAFSA is the Free Application for Federal Student Aid. It's a federal form that students - and parents of dependent undergrads - must complete in order to be eligible for federal student aid for the upcoming school year. The information submitted is used to determine what the EFC (expected family contribution) is and what specific federal grants and loans you qualify for. It must be renewed for each academic year.

2. Where do I get a copy of the FAFSA?

The FAFSA is available online at www.fafsa.ed.gov. If you prefer to complete it by hand, you can download a printable copy here.

3. What is cost of attendance (COA)?

Cost of attendance is the total cost to attend a school for an academic year. This amount includes not only your tuition cost but also estimated living expenses such as rent, food and transportation. You are legally allowed to receive financial aid up to the COA amount your school has established.

4. Do I have to reapply for financial aid every year?

Yes. In order to receive federal student aid throughout your time in school, you are required to reapply using the FAFSA each academic year. The first time you fill out the FAFSA will likely take a while, but each year after that should be easier because you are able to simply renew your application - meaning a lot of the information will be pre-populated.

Private loans also require you to reapply annually. Contact your private loan lender for specific requirements.

5. What's the difference between unsubsidized and subsidized loans?

A subsidized loan is a loan for which you are not responsible for the daily interest accrued during authorized periods. A common example of this is the Perkins loan, which does not accrue interest when you are in school at least half-time, grace period and deferment. An unsubsidized loan, on the other hand, begins accruing interest from the day it is disbursed, and you are responsible to pay all of the interest that accrues on it.

2. Financing Plan: Use this tool to plan ahead for the costs associated with higher education by inputting costs as well as financial aid award numbers, etc. Available in Path 1.

Plan 1

Estimated Cost of Attendance

Estimated Cost of Attendance (as reported by the school) includes expenses like tuition, fees, housing and books. An award letter will provide this information, although you may also find it on a school's website.

Tuition and Fees: $ 0
 Housing and Meals: $ 0
 Books and Supplies: $ 0
 Transportation: $ 0
 Other Education Costs: $ 0

3. Debt-O-Meter: Use this tool to track debt to future income throughout a student's academic career. Available in Path 2.

4. Budget: Use this tool to setup a budget for student finances. Available in Path 1.

Budget

Budgeting is the single best way you can take control of your money. Once you get in the habit of it, you'll be surprised how easy it is to watch your spending, save a few bucks, and stop stressing so much about your cash. Gradewise's budget can help you track your monthly income and expenses. Start with the categories provided. Delete what you don't need, or add others to suit your unique situation. Once you've got a working template, you can use it in future months too. Need help customizing your budget? Check out these instructions.
